CULINARY ESCAPES IN THE SOUTH OF FRANCE

A portrait of a man, presumably Chef Xavier, wearing a dark grey chef's jacket and a matching flat cap. He has a light beard and is looking directly at the camera with a slight smile. His arms are crossed.

Xavier has a deep connection with the Gers region, which has profoundly shaped his cuisine. Born and raised in Auch and trained in some of the area's finest restaurants, he has mastered local gastronomy to create authentic, unforgettable culinary experiences. After nearly 20 years in Canada, where he showcased his talent in local restaurants and appeared on Top Chef Canada, he now wants to share his passion in France. He invites a select group of clients to spend a week discovering his roots: exploring Gascony's history and traditions, savoring regional flavors and unique wines, and participating in hands-on cooking classes to learn traditional French recipes and pairings.

WHAT IS GASCONY?

Centuries of History

Welcome to Occitanie, one of the most dynamic regions of the south of France, filled with so many charming villages and towns that Gascony has to offer. From ancient fortified castles to abbeys, colorful and lively farmers markets, wineries or passionate local producers, soak in the French lifestyle and let us guide you through it.

The Local Gastronomy

Gascony's generosity is best showcased in its food! The respect for traditions that are passed down generations, the passion behind each wine, farmer or even classic duck preparation is felt in every bite of the plates. We don't just eat in Gascony, we are feasting with every meal!
